SUBJECT: Outstanding MEP Systems Design Approach

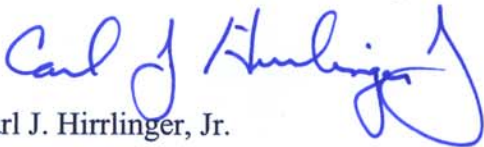

Dear Bob:

Just a short note to comment on what has been a truly positive experience working with you, Ken and the other members of your firm on the various projects at The Washington Post. The experience has been quite successful due in large part your firm's philosophy of developing an in-depth knowledge of the client's facility, its operation and their actual needs and then taking that knowledge and tailoring your design to incorporate both their long and short term objectives. Your attention to detail during the site investigation, design and construction administration phases of the project is exemplary and ensures a functional design and its implementation from day one thereby minimizing field conflicts and resultant construction delays.

Furthermore, your commitment and leadership to developing and participating as a key member in the design team from project conception through construction completion and system commissioning helps ensure a successful outcome for not only the client but for all team members involved.

I look forward to continuing our relationship.

Sincerely,
James G. Davis Construction Corporation
